- "Hate is a bit like debt, it can start very small but it can compound quite quickly, and it does similar things to us that debt does. It takes away more than we think. Sometimes it's that same disempowerment that fuels it further. It can spiral and that's always a challenge.
- – Lee Chambers
- The Merriam-Webster dictionary defines hate as being one of the following:
- (1)intense hostility and aversion usually deriving from fear, anger, or a sense of injury
- extreme dislike or disgust
- (2) a systematic and especially politically exploited expression of hatred.

- (3) Hate is part of that range of human emotions. It is quite distinct, in that it is a longer-term emotion. It's not an immediate, acute emotion, like anger or sadness."
- (4) Dr. Saxe regards hate as an extension of the human tendency to form groups — and for those groups to become "us," the in-group, versus "them," the out-group.
- ----Hatred inflames and activates several areas of the brain : the medial frontal gyrus, right putamen, the premotor cortex, the frontal pole, and the medial insula. The greater the reported hate, the more these areas were activated.
- In hate, only a small area of the frontal cortex is deactivated, suggesting that the hater may want to exercise judgment in calculating moves to harm, injure, or otherwise exact revenge.

Hate and Aggression-

- The dehumanization of an enemy is a common tactic in Aggression- reduces people to the status of animals or automata, and therefore not subject to the normal moral rules.

- It is a well-known method goading the followers for Aggression- indiscriminately . By characterizing the enemy as not really human, worthy of hatred and killing, leaders like Hitler may try to justify their Aggression Vandalism,Pillage Rape-Driving away people from their dwellings-as is evident in even some Demonocracies..

▪ Aquatic habitat macro organisms-

- Examples of aquatic animals are fishes, jellyfishes, sharks, whales, octopuses, barnacles, sea otters, crocodiles, crabs, dolphins, eels, rays, mussels, leeches-etc....

▪ Aquatic Micro-organisms

- Consist of plants, protozoa, bacteria, and fungi- micri-small in size; visible with a microscope, -But colonies of some organisms can be seen with the eye.

- Micro-organisms are universal in occurance - can survive extremeconditions. Many micro-organisms capture sun's energy through photosyntheses, They also decompose matter and release nutrients -

▪ Periphyton and Biofilm

- Algae, bacteria, fungi, protozoa, and the breakdown products of dying cells form layers on submerged surfaces, including bottom sediment, rocks, submerged leaves and branches, and macrophytes. They form periphyton and biofilm. Periphyton is an important food source -Heterotrophic organisms, including larger invertebrates such as snails and insects, scrape the biofilm from surfaces, while some larger animals, such as fish,

- From sheep. Used in clothing. Ram lambs and old "wool" sheep are slaughtered for their meat. Sheep are transported without food or water, in extreme heat and cold. Legs are broken, eyes injured, etc. Sheep are bred to be unnaturally woolly and unnaturally wrinkly, which causes them to get insect infestations around the tail areas. The farmer's solution to this is the painful cutting away of the flesh around the tail (called "mulesing"). "Inferior" sheep are killed. When sheep are sheared, they are pinned down violently and sheared roughly. Their skin is cut up. Every year, hundreds of thousands of shorn sheep die from exposure to cold. Natural predators of sheep (wolves, coyotes, eagles, etc.) are poisoned, trapped, and shot. In the U.S.,

- Some people may have moral concerns about using a vaccine produced in this way. In 2005 the Vatican's Pontifical Academy for Life issued a statement called 'Moral reflections on vaccines prepared from cells derived from aborted human foetuses'. This statement says that they believe it is wrong to make vaccines using human cell strains derived from foetuses, and that there is a 'moral duty to continue to fight' against the use of such vaccines
